

Five Planets

Montanans at the Crossroads of Global Warming

(USA: 2007, 60 mins.)

What are the effects of global warming on Montana's climate? What is the science behind climate change? What will the future bring to our state? Is the forecast gloom and doom, or are there bright spots on the horizon? And what can Montanans do?

Five Planets: Montanans at the Crossroads of Global Warming, entirely locally produced, explores the answers to these important questions. Experts, leaders and individuals from around the state look at the issues from many different perspectives: Transportation, construction, agriculture, forestry, government, wilderness, local solutions.

What can we do about global warming?
